Letter from the Editor:

In this Summer's ArchivByte, we present the Accessible Archives Board members, including our newest member - Ronda Rowe, Head of the UT System Digital Library.

The Board has an especially important role as we transition Accessible Archives to Coherent Digital's History Commons. They will be testing the content as it is loaded to the Coherent Digital platform and providing insights into the user experience.

Bob's Corner is offering information on our combined July 4th and "Accessible Archives Acquisition by Coherent Digital" Summertime Sale! Now is the time to fill those gaps or start a new collection with our exciting discounts! Remember – sales are not just for fiscal year end!

Lastly, because customer service is so important to us, we want to help you transition your Coherent Digital account set-up as seamlessly as possible. Let us know how we can help to add Coherent Digital to your vendor database.

Thank you,

Iris

Accessible Archives Advisory Board Assists in the Transition of Accessible Archives to Coherent Digital LLC

With the acquisition by Coherent Digital, Accessible Archives remains committed to working with the library community to provide the customer support and collection resources necessary for their users to be successful in their learning and research endeavors.

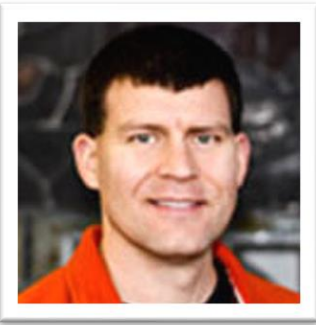

The Accessible Archives Advisory Board comprises leading librarians at institutions with long affiliation and knowledge of Accessible Archives' products and relevant insight into the type of primary source materials in which we specialize.

The Board has an especially important role in the transition of Accessible Archives to Coherent Digital's History Commons – from testing the content as it is loaded to providing input on improving the user experience. In addition, the Board will provide further insights into our free services – including Discovery, Counter, MARC record – and furnish more input on our social media and maybe talk them into guest articles!

The Board has added a new member – Ronda Rowe, Head of the University of Texas System Digital Library. Welcome Ronda!

Ronda Rowe is the Head of the University of Texas System Digital Library for the University of Texas Libraries at the University of Texas at Austin. In this position, she is responsible for developing and implementing effective and efficient license negotiations and processing for the UT System Digital Library across all UT System institutions. She also manages web content for system-wide communication and works to develop efficient ways to manage licensing and web content.

Scott Anderson is an Associate Professor and the Information Systems Librarian at Millersville University. He is responsible for most of the library's electronic, configuring content platforms, authentication services, action figures, bobble-heads, easy buttons, and making sure that what electronic content the library does know about is readily accessible to students and faculty. He is also a member of the Library's Collection Development Committee and is tasked with identifying or fabricating use statistics to inform collection and service decisions through database, publisher or linking reports. He works with faculty and students in the areas of art & design, business, computer science, economics, and mathematics.

Peter McCracken has been an electronic resources librarian at Cornell University since 2016. Prior to joining Cornell, Peter worked as a reference librarian at East Carolina University and the University of Washington. In 2000, he co-founded Serials Solutions, which was acquired by ProQuest in 2004. In 2011 Peter received the Ulrich's Serials Librarianship Award for his work with Serials Solutions, and in 2019 he was a co-author of "Techniques for Electronic Resources Management," ALA's first Open Access monograph.

Darby Orcutt is the Assistant Head, Collections & Research Strategy at the North Carolina State University Libraries and formerly served as NCSU's first Collection Manager for Data Analysis. Darby is a professional enabler of interdisciplinary team research, and of communicating and connecting that research across diverse partners. His expertise is in strategic planning, negotiation, and creating effective culture, especially in libraries, higher education, and in the fields of big data and biotech. A national leader in developing models for access to proprietary and use-limited data for content mining and computational research, his current work revolves primarily around research support and engagement.

We Want to Help You Add to Your Vendor Database

Thank you for your support during the coordination of the seamless transition from Accessible Archives to Coherent Digital. There are always more details during this process than we consider, but, we think we have this covered.

If you are already a Coherent Digital client and they are in your system –you are all set.

If you are not currently a Coherent Digital client -- we need to get you set up. Should we need to electronically update anything or complete any forms, please forward the links or forms to us. Please let us know if you have any questions.

Achieving Higher Customer Satisfaction Is Our Goal at Accessible Archives

Wow!! If all my vendors were as excellent as you – my job would be so much easier!!
Jeannie Crossland, Fiscal Operations Supervisor, Liberty University

Our belief is that great customer service is not just about an interaction -- it is about addressing customers' concerns effectively and creating a personal connection.
